

Eddie Sposa

Director of Tennis

Whether you are just learning tennis, want to brush up on your skills or fine tune your existing game, Eddie Sposa is the coach for you.

Eddie is originally from New Jersey. He moved to Florida in 1974 where his tennis career started. He has been teaching tennis in South Florida for over 30 years, and is available for private lessons as well as clinics and group classes.

Since 1992, coach Sposa also has run the well-known Tennis/Sports Camps at George English Park, Cardinal Gibbons High School, and Hagen Park. He has been a member in good standing with the USPTA since 1978. He played his collegiate career at St. Leo College and Broward Community College.

Coach Sposa got his start teaching at Woodmont Country Club in Tamarac. He moved on to such clubs as the Quadrangle Racquet Club, Hemlock Farms Country Club, George English Tennis Center, Cardinal Gibbons High School, and until just recently, Hagen Park in Wilton Manors. He has coached at the high school level at both St. Thomas Aquinas and Cardinal Gibbons, winning state titles in 1994 and 2003. Sposa was renamed Head Tennis Coach for the boys and girls teams at Cardinal Gibbons High School for the 2009 season and was named The Miami Herald's "Coach of the Year" in 2003.

Eddie lives in Coconut Creek with his wife Christine and two boys, Jimmy 24 and Nick 17. He also has two adorable dogs named Krystal and Betty.
